

Harrison Birtwistle

- 1934 Born 15 July in Accrington, England. Only child of Lancashire farmers. Grows up on small holding on edge of the town.
- 1941 His mother buys him a clarinet and he has lessons with leader of the Accrington military band, which he eventually joins.
- 1945 Begins composing. Few early works survive, with exception of Oockooing Bird for piano (c.1950).
- 1952 Wins scholarship as clarinettist to Royal Manchester College of Music (now the Royal Northern College of Music), where he studies with Frederick Thurston (clarinet) and Richard Hall (composition). Fellow students include the composers Alexander Goehr and Peter Maxwell Davies, the trumpeter Elgar Howarth and the pianist John Ogdon.
- 1953 With fellow Manchester students founds the New Music Manchester group as a vehicle for exploring important twentieth-century works as well as for playing their own music.
- 1954 Hears Messiaen's Turangalila-symphonie in London, conducted by Walter Goehr – 'an absolute magical moment'.
- 1955 Undertakes national service (1955-57) as a clarinettist with band of the Royal Artillery.
- 1956 Only London concert by New Music Manchester group (9 January), organised by William Glock at the Institute of Contemporary Arts, including works by Goehr, Maxwell Davies, Lutyens and Hall, but not Birtwistle, who appears only as clarinettist.
- 1957 Attends a London concert (6 May) where he first hears Boulez's Le marteau sans maître alongside Webern's Concerto op.24 and Stockhausen's Zeitmaße – a formative experience. Undertakes postgraduate clarinet studies (1957-58) with Reginald Kell at Royal Academy of Music, London, followed by a short period playing with Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra. Completes his 'Opus 1', Refrains and Choruses, on New Year's Eve.
- 1958 Signed up to be published by Universal Edition, with whom he remains until 1994. Marries Sheila Duff. Undertakes variety of non-musical jobs.
- 1959 Refrains and Choruses selected by Society for the Promotion of New Music and premiered at the Cheltenham Festival by the Portia Wind Ensemble. Birth of first son, Adam.
- 1960 Three Sonatas for Nine Instruments chosen by SPNM for performance at Aldeburgh Festival, but withdrawn after first rehearsal. Score unpublished, but now housed at Paul Sacher Stiftung, Basel, Switzerland. John Ogdon premieres Précis for solo piano at Dartington Summer School. During this period teaches at three Dorset preparatory schools: Claysmore School and Knighton House (Blandford), and Port Regis (Shaftesbury).
- 1961 Monody for Corpus Christi selected to represent Britain at ISCM Festival.

- 1962 Appointed Director of Music at Cranborne Chase Girls School, Wardour Castle, Dorset (1962-65).
- 1963 Pupils of Knighton House and Port Regis Schools give premiere of Music for Sleep, commissioned by Musical Times and Music in Education. His second son, Silas, is born.
- 1964 Co-founds (with Goehr and Maxwell Davies) the Wardour Castle Summer School, with Michael Tippett as President. Entr'actes and Sappho Fragments premiered at Cheltenham Festival.
- 1965 Tragoedia premiered at second (and last) Wardour Castle Summer School to great critical acclaim. His third son, Toby, is born.
- 1966 Wins a Harkness Fellowship for two years' study in the USA. Becomes Visiting Fellow at Princeton University, where he completes the composition of Punch and Judy.
- 1967 Completes his American studies at University of Colorado at Boulder. Co-founds Pierrot Players with Maxwell Davies and Stephen Pruslin. Their first concert at Queen Elizabeth Hall, London, includes premiere of Monodrama (later withdrawn) to a libretto by Pruslin and dedicated to Maxwell Davies.
- 1968 Punch and Judy, to a libretto by Pruslin, premiered at the Aldeburgh Festival in the presence of Benjamin Britten. Nomos commissioned by the BBC Proms and premiered by Colin Davis and the BBC Symphony Orchestra. Approached by newly established London Weekend Television to write a TV opera on the subject of Orpheus, but project falls through.
- 1969 Down by the Greenwood Side, to a text by Michael Nyman, premiered at the Brighton Festival. Peter Zinovieff collaborates for first time on tape parts for Linoi, Four Interludes for a Tragedy and Medusa. Approached by Royal Opera House Covent Garden to commission an opera that eventually becomes The Mask of Orpheus, to a text by Zinovieff. Commission later passes to Glyndebourne (1973), then English National Opera (1975).
- 1970 Premiere in London of Nenia: The Death of Orpheus, to a text by Zinovieff. The Pierrot Players disband (and become the Fires of London).
- 1971 An Imaginary Landscape, a BBC commission, is premiered by Pierre Boulez and BBC Symphony Orchestra at ISCM Festival in London.
- 1972 The Triumph of Time premiered in London by Lawrence Foster and Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. Writes his only film score to Sydney Lumet's The Offence, with electronic realization by Zinovieff.
- 1973 Appointed Cornell Visiting Professor of Music at Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania. Begins composition of The Mask of Orpheus, Acts 1 & 2 (1973-75). Chronometer, his only piece exclusively for tape, prepared with Zinovieff, is premiered in London.
